ADVISING CENTER

Life gets busy, it happens! With the Advising Center's new feature, you can set up an appointment with your advisor from the comfort of your own home. If your student has an advisement hold on their CampusConnect account, or would like to meet with an advisor about upcoming classes, they can schedule an appointment with one of four advisors here:

NOT ANYMORE

Navigating college relationships can be difficult. The "Safe Schools: Not Anymore" training program is a Southeastern requirement designed to inform students about healthy and safe relationships. The course covers topics such as domestic violence, harassment, and speaking out. If your student has tried to enroll in their Spring courses through CampusConnect, they may have found that they have been placed on a "Safe Schools" hold. Students are required to take the "Safe Schools" training before they will be able to enroll. This training can be found under the "Student Info" tab in your student's CampusConnect, and the hold will be released as soon as the training is completed.

If you have any questions about the "Safe Schools" training, you can email CIDT at CIDT@se.edu, or call (580) 745-3185

CHROMEBOOKS

With the holidays just around the corner, Chromebooks may seem like an affordable and exciting tech option for your Southeastern student. Although these computers have their pros, they are not compatible with the Respondus LockDown Browser, a program many students are required to use to take important exams and quizzes. Windows and Mac products may be better options.
