Membership

The Faculty Appellate Committee will consist of no more than nine faculty members. There will be eight tenured faculty members appointed by Faculty Senate for two-year staggered terms. There will be four members from the School of Arts and Sciences, two from the John Massey John Massey School of Business and two from the School of Education and Behavioral Sciences. One member is appointed by the President. If any member of the committee is an interested party in a case which comes before the committee, said committee member shall not serve on that case. The committee member may identify him/herself as an interested party and the appellant can challenge a committee member as an interested party but must provide grounds. The committee as a whole will determine if there is an issue of interest raised by the appellant. The Faculty Senate will also select three alternate members (one - from each school) who will serve to replace committee members from the same school in the case of recusals for a given hearing. If both a regular member and their designated alternate must recuse themselves from a hearing, the Faculty Senate will appoint an appropriately qualified special alternate. No member may serve more than two consecutive terms.

Membership

The Graduate Council will be composed of six graduate faculty members who are not graduate coordinators, two graduate students, the Graduate Dean, and the coordinators of each of the graduate programs. In the case where a coordinator of a graduate program is also an administrator, he/she will appoint a faculty member from that graduate program to serve as his/her proxy. If there is a question whether a coordinator is an administrator or a staff member with administrative duties, the Committee on Committees will make the final decision. The chair of the council will be a faculty member. The Graduate Dean will serve as an ex officio, non-voting member and act as a liaison to the committee. Two members will be graduate students, recommended by the Graduate Dean and approved by the Graduate Council, and serve for two-year staggered terms. Six faculty members (who have Regular Faculty status) will be appointed by the Faculty Senate, two from the School of Business, two from the School of Education and Behavioral Sciences, and two from the School of Arts and Sciences. Appointments of the faculty members are for three-year terms.
