TEXT

There is no required book. See the website for course documents which may come in handy.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This course is meant to introduce the student to programming and its application to scholarly research. We will spend the entire semester working together to write a single program whose purpose was described at the end of last semester.

COURSE WORK

Students will be required to meet with the instructors on a regularly basis. Tasks will be assigned and students will be expected to work on tasks in a prompt and professional manner. Our goal is it to get a programming running correctly and efficiently by the end of the semester.

GRADES

Grades will be assigned based on completion of tasks and ability to meet with (and work with) the instructors.

POLICIES

For a complete description of Southeastern's policies regarding academic misconduct, visit <http://homepages.se.edu/student-life/files/2009/10/student-handbook.pdf#page=6>

We reserve the right to change any policies as we see fit to ensure that you are indeed receiving the best possible education that can be given to you in the subject matter at hand. If we feel a certain aspect of the course does not appear to be effective in its method, we will attempt to change it (for the better I hope).
