Items Needing Approval and Results

New Course: ORIE 2990 – Various Topics in Research. One to three credit hours. Course is intended for the McNair research students but can be used for other groups as needed. Most departments have their own 4990 Research numbers but this is a lower-level “non-departmental” type course. The goal of the course is to help students acquire the knowledge and skills that are needed to participate in undergraduate research. The course includes an analysis of research methods, research ethics, and techniques for data collection and analysis. (Received eight votes to approve. Three members did not vote).
